Dear Jim,

You may remember that when you were here I got that blue file folder from my desk to make some copies of what I believed you could use for your and found some of that had disappeared.

One record in particular that I wanted has since then been recovered for me from the original files in the basement. I enclose it.

It is the first synopsis page of several Gemberling added to the multi-volume collection of individual reports forwarded to Washington to be given to the Warren Commission. The date is the day the curbstone was dug up.

You believe you saw in the Shaneyfelt photos evidence that the patching of the curbstone was done in the Lab. I am confident that is not the case and want you to be aware of the evidence that can be cited against you if you say that. This page is of that nature.

When the curbstone was dug up and before it was in the Lab in Washington Gemberling said that there was no longer any mark or nick visible.

Then remember you went back to take pictures to show your folks and then, May of 1964, you could not find any mark, scar, nick, hole or anything. As I recall that is in your affidavit.

There is also the fact that prior to this digging up the Dallas FBI could not find any mark or hole of nick of any kind. That does I think indicate that the patching was before then.

Best to you both,

Harold
